Pasonanca Natural Park

Home of Zamboanga's Pride

The Pasonanca Natural Park is the home of the Zamboanga Bulbul (endemic to Region 9 particularly Zamboanga City). The park is also where the watershed intake is located. The area is protected area under the supervision of DENR and managed by the Zamboanga City Water District (ZCWD). It is rich in biodiversity with more than __ bird species can be found.

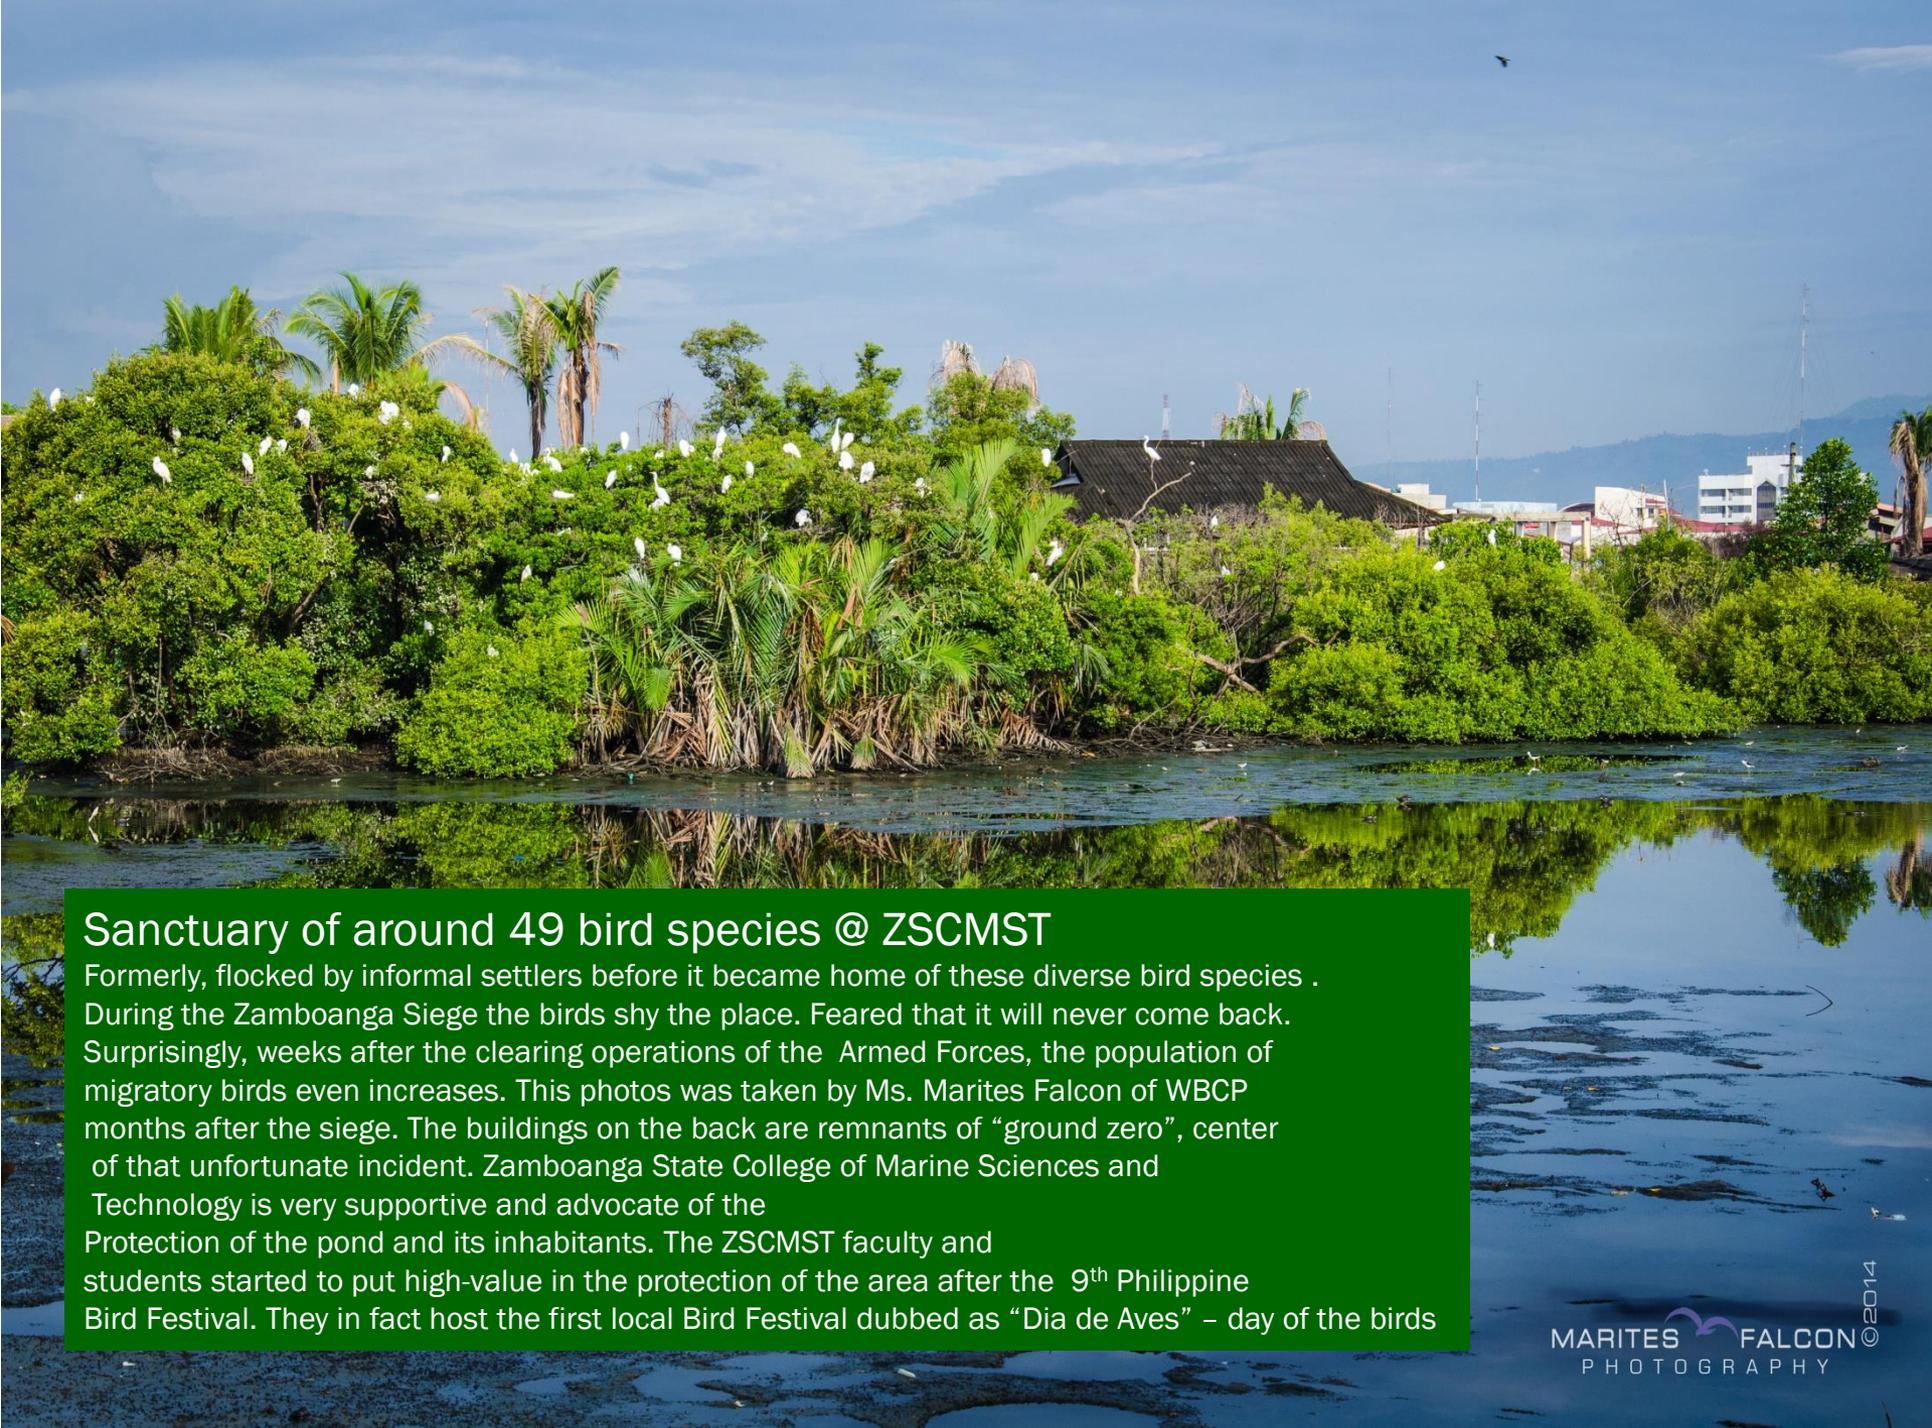

Sanctuary of around 49 bird species @ ZSCMST

Formerly, flocked by informal settlers before it became home of these diverse bird species . During the Zamboanga Siege the birds shy the place. Feared that it will never come back. Surprisingly, weeks after the clearing operations of the Armed Forces, the population of migratory birds even increases. This photos was taken by Ms. Marites Falcon of WBCP months after the siege. The buildings on the back are remnants of “ground zero”, center of that unfortunate incident. Zamboanga State College of Marine Sciences and Technology is very supportive and advocate of the Protection of the pond and its inhabitants. The ZSCMST faculty and students started to put high-value in the protection of the area after the 9th Philippine Bird Festival. They in fact host the first local Bird Festival dubbed as “Dia de Aves” – day of the birds
